

Biodiversity, Natural resource management

Keywords:

Community-based natural resource management, conservation, wildlife, illegal wildlife trade

iied

Policy pointers

Increased enforcement against illegal wildlife trade is crucial if the current surge in poaching is to be contained, but it can have harsh consequences for local communities living with wildlife unless managed carefully.

Local communicommunities in tackling illegal wildlife trade can help policymakers and practitioners think through different options and check that assumptions happens as a result) and impacts (how things change in the longer term for the intended bene ciary). Another format is a logframe, which represents the same information in a logical, hierarchical matrix from inputs to nal impacts. However, given the complexity of both IWT and of community engagement, and the very varied conditions under which different initiatives operate, we present an evolving ToC of a third more detailed variety, a key feature of which is its explicit consideration of the critical assumptions underpinning different 'causal pathways' to the desired impact

Assumptions connect early, intermediate and long term outcomes and impacts, and explain how and why proposed interventions are expected to achieve these. For example, if a project intends local communities to receive tourism revenue as an incentive for conservation and to reduce poaching, there is an implicit assumption that the amount of revenue generated from tourism will be sufficient to provide that incentive. It also assumes there aren't any other more in uential factors encouraging people to poach. Many conservation projects fail because their assumptions just do not hold true.

An evolving ToC

Figure 0 100k2.6(e)-9.5(e)-4.6(i BT 01)-25()t.3( CID )iBDC BT /(.s.5(2.5(, p)-4.1(r)2.4(e)-14.5(s)0.5(e)-5.

for local people to poach wildlife in the r.t place;

Products

The International Institute for Environment and Development (IIED) promotes sustainable development, linking local priorities to global challenges. We support some of the world's most vulnerable people to strengthen their voice in decision making.

Contact Dilys Roe dilys.roe@iied.org

80-86 Gray's Inn Road London, WC1X 8NH United Kingdom

Tel: +44 (0)20 3463 7399

IIED welcomes feedback via: @IIED and www.facebook.com/theiied

This research was funded by UK aid from the UK Government, however the views expressed do not necessarily re ect the views of the UK Government.

for example creating new enterprise opportunities or salaried jobs locally or further a eld.

For each of these pathways, Figure 1 highlights key activities, and the outputs and outcomes that we